

Enterprise Risk Management Policy

Section 1 - Introduction

- (1) Charles Darwin University ('the University', 'CDU') is committed to the management of risk and fostering a culture of risk management. The University recognises that an integrated and balanced approach to risk supports the achievement of strategic and operational objectives.
- (2) Enterprise Risk Management (ERM) is the process of identifying and addressing the potential events that represent risks to the achievement of strategic goals, or to opportunities to gain competitive advantage. ERM is an integral and inseparable part of good governance, management practice, performance culture and processes that are the core of University business.
- (3) The University is committed to embedding enterprise risk management within its learning and teaching, research, operations and commercial activities.

Section 2 - Purpose

(4) The Enterprise Risk Policy (policy) communicates the University's commitment to managing enterprise-wide risks and establishes clear expectations to ensure the CDU community are aware of their responsibilities for managing risk.

Section 3 - Scope

- (5) The policy applies to:
 - a. all members of the University community, including Council members, Board and Committee members, employees, students, contractors and adjunct of the University; and
 - b. all activities authorised and conducted by or on behalf of the University.

Section 4 - Policy

(6) Risk is defined as the uncertainty associated with the delivery of the strategic goals of the University, which could result in either a positive or negative outcome. The University will face risks to its business from both internal and external sources. Successful risk management will enable the University to effectively understand and manage the uncertainty to which the University is exposed.

Risk Management Principles

- (7) In line with the International Standard ISO 31000:2018 Risk management Guidelines, the University's risk management principles are:
 - a. Integrated: risk management is an integral part of all University activities.
 - b. Structured and Comprehensive: a structured and comprehensive approach to risk management contributes to

- consistent and comparable results.
- c. Customised: the risk management system and processes are customized and proportionate to the University's external and internal context related to its strategic goals.
- d. Inclusive: the appropriate and timely involvement of stakeholders enables their knowledge, views and perceptions to be considered. This results in improved awareness and informed risk management.
- e. Dynamic: risks can emerge, change or disappear as the University's external and internal context changes. Risk management anticipates, detects, acknowledges and responds to those changes and events in an appropriate and timely manner.
- f. Best Available Information: the inputs to risk management are based on historical and current information, as well as on future expectations. Risk management explicitly takes into account any limitations and uncertainties associated with such information and expectations. Information should be timely, clear and available to relevant stakeholders.
- g. Human and Cultural Factors: human behaviour and culture significantly influence all aspects of risk management at each level and stage.
- h. Continual Improvement: risk management is continually improved through learning and experience.

Enterprise Risk Management Framework

- (8) The key components of the University's enterprise risk management framework are:
 - a. the Enterprise Risk Plan;
 - b. this policy;
 - c. the risk management methodology and processes, as set out in the Enterprise Risk Management Procedure;
